

GHTC NEWS

DELAY OF GAME

By James MacFarlane

First things first: this newsletter is coming to you a little later than last month, but we had some exciting things happen at the beginning of the month that I didn't want our community to have to wait until December to hear about them. I hope you'll find the extra news worth the extra wait!

We are also pleased to announce two new sections to the newsletter: Classroom Connection, where you can catch up on all the great things being done by our students throughout the school day for the last month, and the Photo Board, where pictures of our students at different classes and events will be posted.

Thank you for joining us!

CLASSROOM CONNECTION

TECHNICAL THEATRE

1st + 2nd Period - Stagecraft

October was spent building individual 2x2 flats, and experimenting and exploring different scenic paint techniques upon their surfaces.

3rd Period - Practicum

This class has spent the entire first quarter on scenic construction for She Kills Monsters (opening January 2023) and hanging the lighting for the HSHS Dance department's production of The Nutcracker (opening this December).

THEATRE ARTS

1st Period - Acting I

Students covered two very different styles of acting in October: Ancient Greek Choral Odes and Improvisation.

2nd Period - Acting Studio

October was spent in collaboration with HSHS Dance on the creation and performance of pieces for the Anti-Bullying initiative. A number of classes came to see performances and the project was very successful.

4th Period - Advanced Ensemble

Rehearsals continue on She Kills Monsters, but all of the play has been blocked, and all the student-designed fight choreography has been set.

Photo Board

(Clockwise from Title)

1. Practicum students create dragons out of tape, cardboard, and lots of time.
2. GHTC actors join class with UNCG Theatre students on our field trip.
3. Stagecraft flats after construction and scenic paint treatment.
4. Acting I students practice Greek Choral Odes out in the early morning sun.
5. Technical students (safely supervised) carve pumpkins for Halloween.
